

Lancaster SSAGO Club Report- Summer 2014

After drying out from our wash out in Bath it was back to our usual Tuesday antics. It only took a few weeks of thinking of nothing but tent poles for our events officer to recover!

We celebrated Pancake Day with armpit fudge and tea light smores which definitely didn't result in a small fire being built on a campus bench. Our Easter egg hunt was the likely cause of some alarmed faces of innocent students being passed by groups of running SSAGOers on the quest for paper eggs. The Lancaster SSAGO wide game gave us another night of campus antics. Watch this space for updates on our very own hunger games.

As well as these newbie socials we have a few classics we like to keep in: enjoying the summery weather this term with a barbeque- please note marshmallows do not barbeque well. Pizza and film night is always a favourite in the social calendar but does inevitably raise the question of 'which film?' to which much debate ensues. We are slowly but surely taking over a local pub for quiz night; every time we go we need more and more chairs- not so successful in our number of points but the LSSAGO record is consistently being challenged. An evening of board games, sounds like a relaxed affair you may think, but not for us; tensions were high around the infamous 'dooble' table. Meanwhile the president sits on substantial funds in the Game of Life- the society is still awaiting a generous donation. We also have been seen bowling over the coastal town of Morecambe with our striking bowling skills. Another staple for a summer social calendar is a trip to Blackpool's favourite water park - watch out for this as it will be making a splash at spring rally!

Members have displayed their hidden baking talents producing cakes for bake sales. These proved to give a good source of funds; delivering over £100 on both occasions as well as providing a perfect opportunity for bonus cake socials where left over produce is to be consumed.

Final term of the year signals a farewell to some members and this time it was the turn of a long standing member and the other half of LSSAGO's favourite couple, Tom- which we celebrated in style at a local restaurant.

Of course summer term couldn't end without a camp- this year it's an action packed few days in Blackburn: shooting, archery, ice skating, orienteering, mountain biking- you name it. Please note we'll have just returned from this by the time we get to rally so go easy on us, Shi T might be tired!

PS. We are now on twitter! @LancasterSSAGO